Pittsburgh Fellows to discover 'Insights into Entrepreneurship'

PITTSBURGH, PA – Jan. 31, 2014

The Pittsburgh Fellows will attend the program 'Insights into Entrepreneurship' on Friday, February 7th, which will feature discussions and panels about entrepreneurship and technology. The young professionals in the program will hear from entrepreneur and Pittsburgh business leaders at companies such as Forever, Alpha Lab Gear, Loyaltree, and Birchmere Ventures. The event will be held at Bakery Square and will start with a tour of the Tech Shop and end with a tour of Google's offices.

The Pittsburgh Fellows Program is a post-graduate, leadership development program that recruits and trains highly qualified college graduates to be values-driven, ethical business leaders in the city and region of Pittsburgh. The goal is to positively impact the city through current and future business leaders who use their resources for the well-being of the whole community. The Sewickley-based program focuses on the fellows integrating their Christian faith with their calling to business. The program emphasizes serving Pittsburgh by shaping strong leaders for its future.
